A MODEL HUSBAND.

Third Installment of Letters on this Interesting Question by Ladies Competing for the $10 in Gold Prize Offered by The Columbia Herald-

A truly Christian gentleman, who does not chew or smoke; always comes home with a smile and pleasant word, for his wife and all he meets. "One who keepeth his own counsel" when it is best. > Editor of the Columbia Herald:
> Allow me to enlist a letter on the subject of a "Model Husband." I think a Model Husband can in no way contribute so much to the happiness of home and a confiding wife, than always act devout with pride and honor, expressing feelings of profound affection and veneration for her. A Model Husband should strive she would go; and he would always So I will content myself for this one picture. He was generous hearted; but not too much so; 'kind to her in every respect. Never rumbled when she wanted to go to se, her mother or said "Let's not go to church to-day," ner. A Model Husband should strive to live so as to leave a name, spoken of as a perfect model, and one of devine truth, that leads to the brightest but always went and took a great delight in pleasing her. It seemed ppiness, with memory sacred while never thought that she "put e lives, letting the image of a great on" when she was sick; or went into business transactions without saying "Myrtie, what do you think about this?" Nor never went to the saloon at evening, as he came from is business, and drank to his heart's ontent, till the last nickel in his pocket was gone; and come home at night and his footsteps on the door make his wife shudder. He did not make vows at the altar he did not try wife's comfort he could; did not "lazy around" and see her do the work to earn their bread; but put his own shoulder to the many to the work to earn their bread; but put his company to the work to earn their bread; but put his company to the work to earn their bread; but put his company to the work to earn their bread; but put his company to the work t own shoulder to the wheel. Never ome in at night with a harsh word

If it were not the virtues, and not the number, that constitute a model should respect and esteem, for they the number, that constitute a model are most credit, and I am sure will in husband, the editor need not have the end show largest in the many plea-ures of any approving mind, and in the abiding confidence of love in the abiding confidence of love in the abiding confidence of love to know of the little thought they and Leath Davis: Misses Ella and Leath and Mr. Will Davis attended or you and yours around a happy ite-side, added with few interest, and fresh ties as sacred and tender by tender ministrations and manly levotions that will live forever with the find the first thought they give this valuable accomplishment. When they shall have educated them selves in this, the millenium will have come.

He Would "Rather Be Right than President."

My "Model Husband" must be a man who would "rather be right than President." One who is so truly brave that he is at all times ready to wield the pen or sword in defense of right, or performance of duty, irrespective of the shafts of malice, which always love a shining mark. He must be so Christ-like in his tenderness, truthfulness and wisdom, that it would be my joy to follow wherever he might lead. Such a man would not only care for his own household, but would so love his fellow men that the cry of the needy would never go unheeded.
